

SUMMARY

The paper takes us through the various stages in the digitalization of original photographs with regard to choosing equipment, calibrating instruments, capturing and processing images, preparing archives for final applications and the usefulness of training in these various areas, as well as establishing work protocols.

Formatat: anglès (Regne Unit)